

HABITATS

Books to Share with Children

At the Edge of the Pond

By Jennifer Owings Dewey
Little, Brown and Co., 1987

This book captures life in the pond from daybreak to nightfall — from the sounds and sights of morning to the hush and quiet of evening.

Animals at Home

By Craig Brown
Robert Rinehart Publishers, 1996

An inside look at dwellings made by animal architects that weave, tunnel, carve, and build.

And So They Build

By Bert Kitchen
Candlewick Press, 1993

Bert takes readers into the extraordinary world of animal behavior with descriptions of 12 astonishing architects and explanations of how they build their structures.

Where Butterflies Grow

By Joanne Ryder
Lodestar Books, 1989

You are invited to take an imaginative journey to experience one of nature's wondrous processes — the transformation from caterpillar to butterfly.

Red-spotted Newt

By Doris Cove
Macmillan Publishing Co., 1994

This story follows the life of one red-spotted newt as she lives within her habitat.

The Salamander Room

By Annie Mazar
Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., 1991

A little boy finds an orange salamander and thinks he can turn his room into a perfect salamander home.

In the Forest

By Ann Cooper
Denver Museum of Natural History
Press, 1996

A look at animals that live in the forest and their habitat needs.

HABITATS

Books to Share with Children

Exploring Freshwater Habitats

By Diane Snowball
Mondo Publishing, 1995

Discover the habitats of plants and animals that live in rivers, ponds, and lakes.

Exploring Tree Habitats

By Patti Seifert and Peg Doherty
Mondo Publishing, 1995

Discover who is living in the tree.

The Magic School Bus Hops Home: A Book About Animal Habitats

By Patricia Relf
Demco Media, 1995

The Magic School Bus takes you on a trip to the homes and habitats of different animals.

Exploring Habitats

By Graham Peacock and Terry Hudson
Raintree and Stech Vaughn, 1993

An exploration of the parts of a habitat and some of the creatures who live in these habitats.

